RAF COLLEGE CRANWELL
“Project APOLLO”

Presenting and Celebrating 100 Years of RAF College History
Launched 19 July 2021

Version 1.1 20 September 2021 IBM Steward 6GE

In its electronic form, this document may contain underlined, hypertext links to additional material, including alternative supporting data and archived video/audio clips.

[To open these links in a separate browser tab and thus not lose your place in this e-document, press control+click (Windows) or command+click (Apple Mac) on the underlined word, image or icon]

What is Project APOLLO?

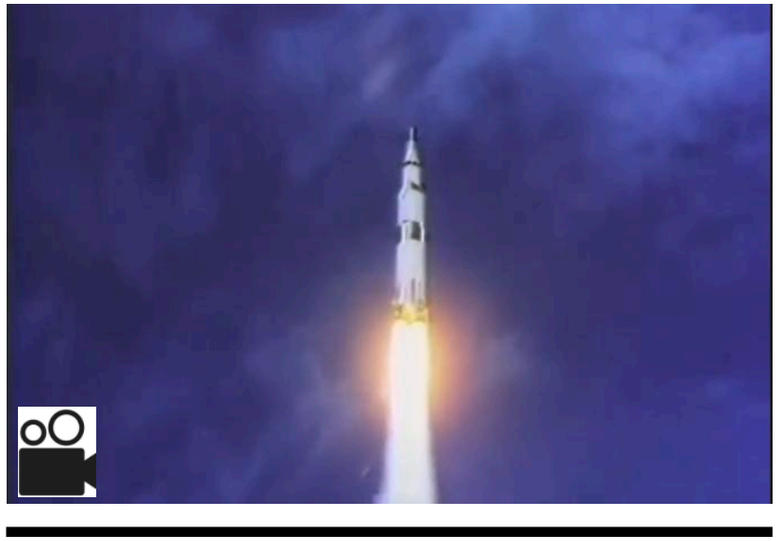
The APOLLO project is an attempt to promote and celebrate a verified record of RAF College History for the years 1920 to 2020 inclusive.

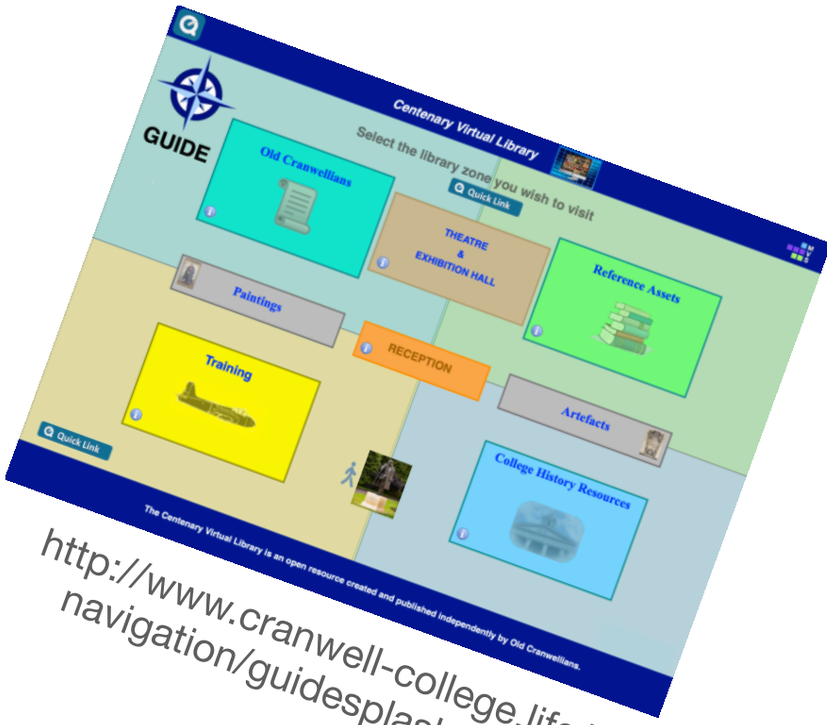
Launched on 19 July 2021, this project is the culmination of three years' intensive historical research by Mike Smith and Ian Steward, both former graduates of the College, and the presentation of their findings on different websites. The focus is on celebrating the achievements of Cranwellian alumni and the unrivalled contributions they have made to the defence and security of the United Kingdom.

The content of our websites is aimed at a variety of audiences, young and old, interested in military aviation, the RAF and, especially, the RAF College. Links to each of two sites are offered below, as is a short video clip of College History linked to the graphic of an APOLLO launch. We stress that the sites are still under construction and we would be delighted with any feedback or material to include on them.

Contact details are available on each site.

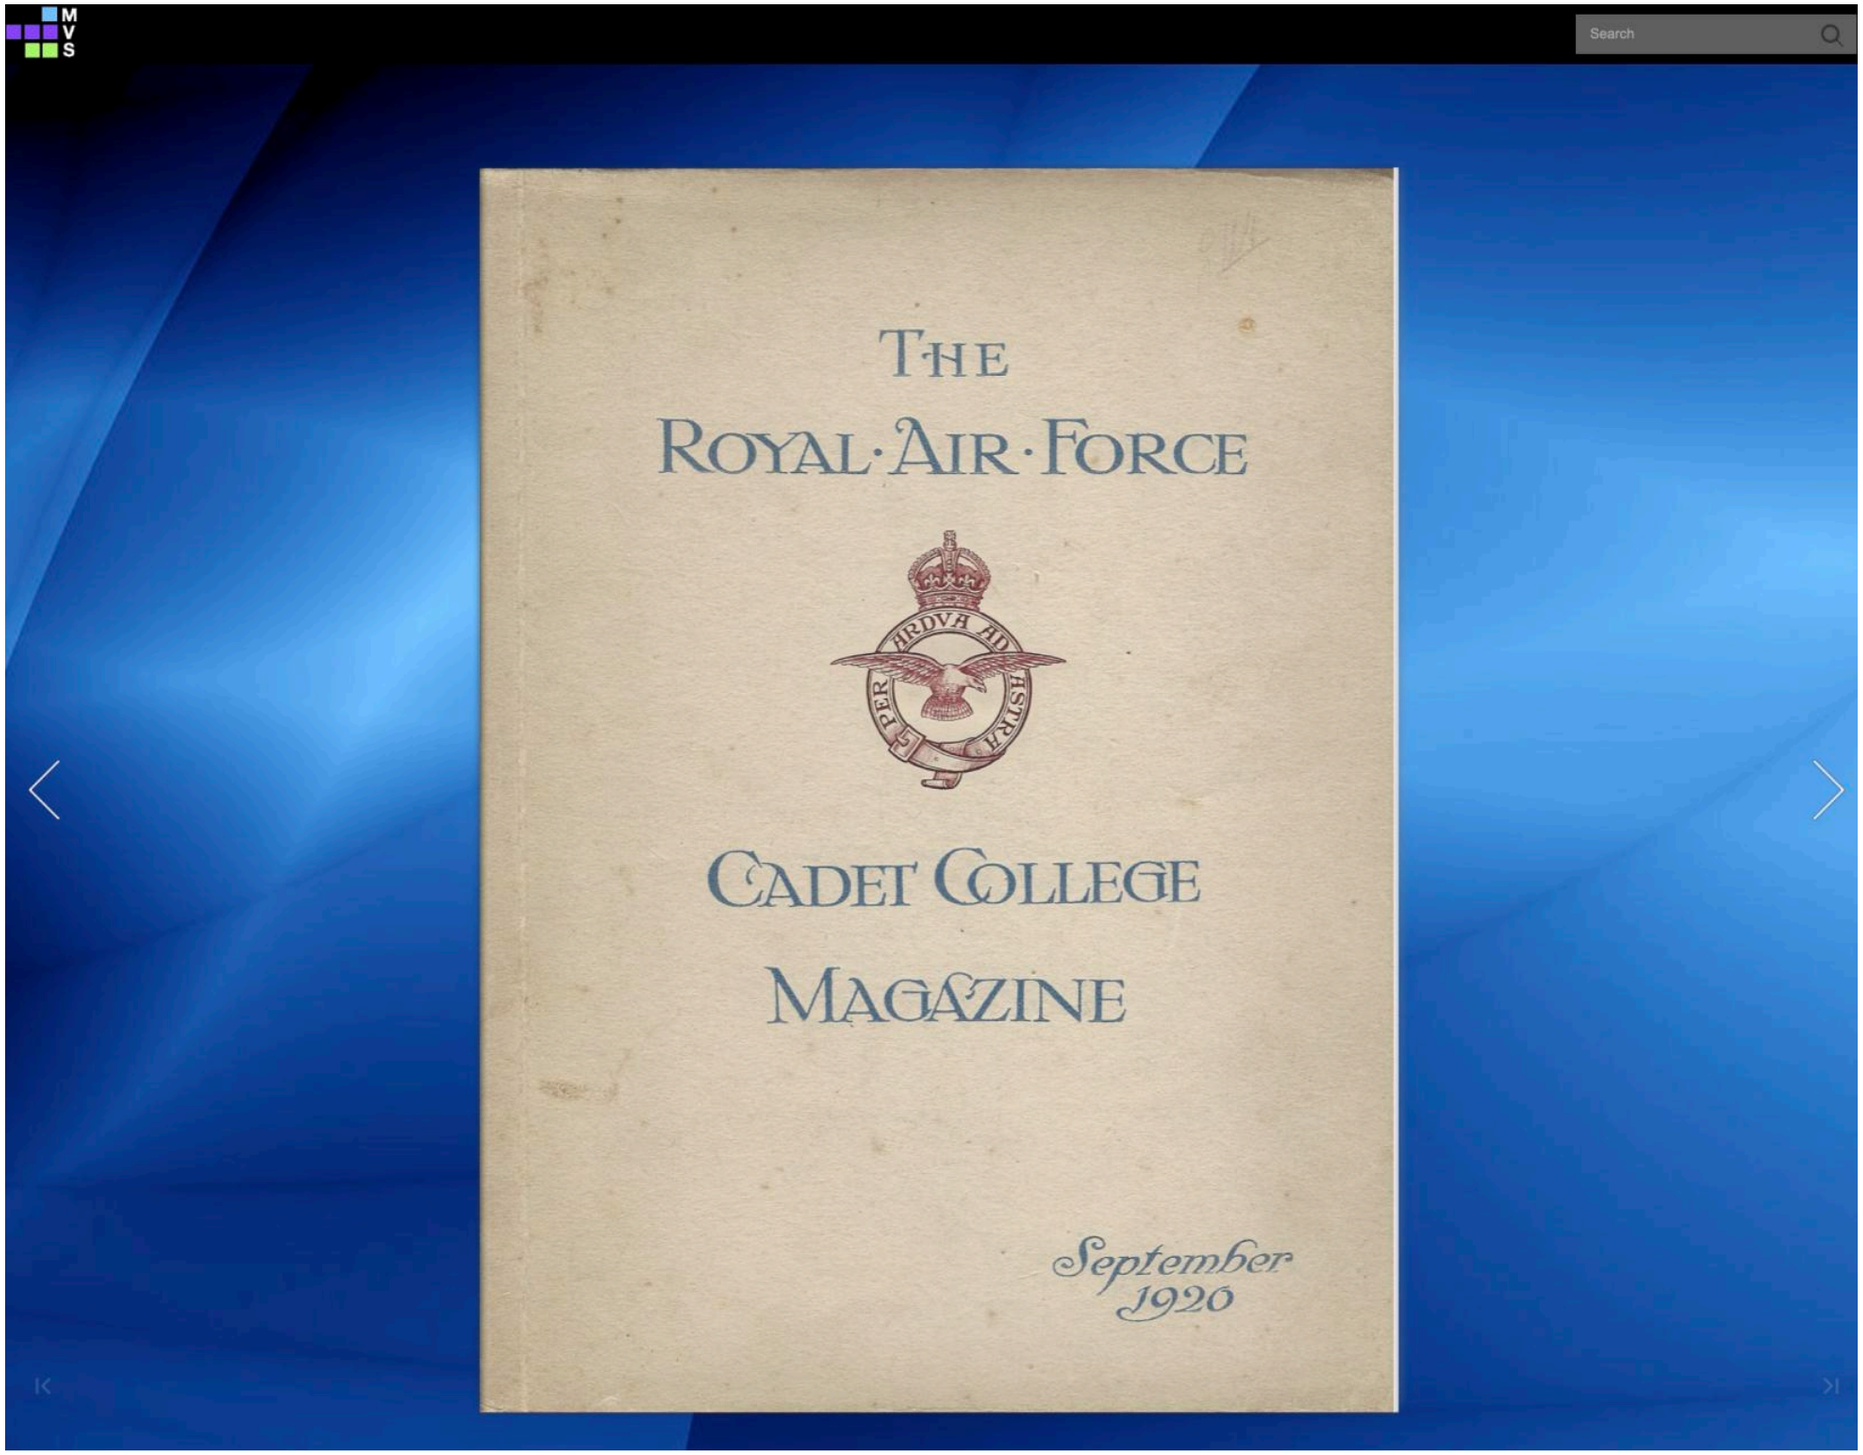
https://www.cranwellian-ian.com/index.html





http://www.cranwell-college.life/navigation/guidesplash.html

In the Beginning



Click on above picture. Mike Smith takes you back to the First College Journal

100 Memories

Click on above picture. Ian Steward captures 100 College Themes in its 100 Year History