A Singh - Tribute to his becoming MIAF in 1963

Air Vice-Marshal
Arjan Singh, D.F.C.

It has just been announced that Air Vice-Marshal Arjan Singh is to be the next Chief of Air Staff of the Indian Air Force with the rank of Air Marshal.

After graduating from the Government College, Lahore, the future Air Marshal was selected for Cranwell. He joined the College in 1938 and was in "B" Squadron with the present Commandant, Air Commodore Lyne. His C.F.I. was Squadron Leader (now Marshal of the Royal Air Force) Dermot Boyle. He graduated in December 1939 and is remembered among other things as a keen swimmer and hockey player. He has always maintained his sporting interests and is still an ardent golfer.

On his return to India, he was posted to No. 1 Squadron, then equipped with Lysanders. He fought with this squadron in Burma, became a Flight Commander when it was re-equipped with Hurricanes and then commanded the same squadron against the Japanese at Imphal. His brilliant sorties during this campaign earned him the D.F.C. Since the war, he has commanded the station at Ambala and held a wide range of command and staff appointments culminating in his present appointment as V.C.A.S. While the Air Marshal was A.O.C.-in-C. Operational Command, the Indian Air Force underwent a vast programme of expansion and modernisation. He was personally responsible in large measure both for directing the Air Force's operational training and for setting up on the west coast a high level Armament Training Wing. Recently, he was in overall charge of Exercise Shiksha which was held by the Indian Air Force in conjunction with the R.A.F., the R.A.A.F., and the U.S.A.F.

The new C.A.S. has attended the R.A.F. Staff College at Andover, the Joint Services Staff College and the Imperial Defence College.

A.V.-M. Arjan Singh is married and has three children. His wife — Mrs. Teji Arjan Singh — takes a keen interest in servicemen's families and presides over a number of important welfare activities.

The Journal offers its sincere congratulations and best wishes to this distinguished Old Cranwellian.

ARJAN SINGH, DFC

Singh" got an "Average" in flying, which rose to "Above Average" on December 22, 1939. He was awarded colours in swimming, athletics and hockey and was the Vice-Captain of the teams for these sports.

When the Second World War began in Europe in September 1939, their training was cut short due to the shortage of pilots in the Air Force and they were commissioned in December, 1939. There was a shortage of pilots everywhere—in the Royal Air Force in Britain and the Indian Air Force in India, which had only one squadron at Ambala. Prithipal Singh and Arjan Singh were the last two officers to join the squadron in January 1940. This Indian squadron had been formed on April 1, 1933 at Drigh Road, Karachi by the first batch of airmen, who were called the Hawaii Sepoys and a few officers (including Subroto Mukherjee, who later became the first Indian Air Chief) and was commanded by an RAF officer. Originally, it had four Westland Wapitis (a fabric bomber/reconnaissance biplane, typical of the RAF aircraft during the inter-war period). The joining of these two officers brought the squadron to its full strength in 1940.

No. 1 Squadron Crest. Its personnel are called 'tigers' and their motto is 'Ibad Mein Shakti'

Legend of the Indian Air Force

By Air Marshal KC Cariappa (Retd)
PVSM VM

It was mid-1958 and I was posted in Poona, one of four still-wet-behind-the-ears Pilot Officers. On joining the Squadron we were told that we 'lowest of the low,' and were neither to be seen nor heard! For all practical purposes, other than doing Orderly Officer duties, Boards of Officers and Pay Parades, we did not exist. Thus, it was a bolt from the blue when I was told that The Boss wanted to see me. Now what had I done? Off I went to his office with some nagging fear of either having done something I should not have, or that I did not do something I should have. I entered the lion's den to be given some even more disturbing orders. I was to report the following morning to the Station Commander's office. This was terrible, worse than I expected. All kinds of questions, to which there were no answers, raged through my head.

At the appointed hour I was in the Station Adjutant's office where even he, the one person privy to all the Station Commander's thoughts was not sure why I had been summoned. A little later I marched into the Station's sanctum sanctorum. There was our rather avuncular Gp Capt MM Engineer, DFC who said he was detailing me for liaison duties with the AOCinC because he was feeling expansive, he actually asked for a glass of sherry! Sherry! Now where on earth could one get something like that, especially in a relatively 'back of beyond' Air Force station? But, one such bottle was found. And then as time passed, he even asked for a second glass! I cannot recall this ever being repeated during any of his visits.

The other incident that will always remain etched in my memory is that he never ever 'lost his cool' (in today's parlance). The one occasion that stands out vividly in my memory involved me and I deserved a 'kick in the pants'. The Chief was the President of the Swimming Federation of India. It was during his stewardship that Indo-Sri Lanka swimming ties received a great fillip. He was responsible for initiating the Palk Straits Swim and for the once-in-two-years swimming competition. On the first such meet, Sri Lanka made a clean sweep of the women's events and the Indian men won the team championship and the water polo trophies. The second Meet was conducted in Bombay. A few days before the event, the Secretary of the Federation confirmed all was in order, and that he would meet us at the venue. I should have checked out what I was told but I obviously had not done so, as unfolding events would prove. We arrived at Santa Cruz late one evening and whilst the CAS proceeded to the MES Inspection Bungalow, I checked on the luggage. Bajaj, the Secretary came to the airport and as the luggage was being unloaded, he noticed that some items that should have been there, were not! These were the trophies for the events of the following evening. Disaster! The sky came tumbling down upon me even as the earth opened out to swallow me. What was to be done? Here 'Commn Squadron' came to my rescue to say that the aircraft would be returning to Delhi and would re-position the following afternoon. The crew said they would check with CAS's Secretariat and would return with the missing Silver. Somewhat mollified, I knew I had been saved. But, had I? There was no trace of the trophies; it was then that Bajaj realised they were still in the SFI office. What on earth was I to tell the Chief? How could I possibly 'pass the buck'? It was the end of the road where I was concerned and

I expected to be 'hung and quartered', banished to some unheard of location never to be heard of or seen again. I delayed the moment of truth till we were on our way to the Shivaji Park swimming pool and then blurted my confession. Till then, CAS and Mrs Arjan Singh were talking at the back. What followed my disclosure was an uncomfortable, and for me, ominous silence. It was broken a few seconds later by a single terse "silly ass". That was it! Nothing else! I waited for the deluge of invective but none followed.

At the Prize distribution ceremony the Chief stated very simply that the Men's trophies were not there that evening. He said he was so confident that the Indian Men's team would win the swimming events and the water polo that he told his Staff not to bother about bringing all that valuable silver along to Bombay. Once more I squirmed and hoped for the earth to swallow me.

Need I say any more about the greatness of the man who forgot all about the incident on the drive back after the Meet?

With spot-on precision timing, the fly past of Jet Provosts of the Flying Training Wing swoop low over the parade ground at R.A.F. College, Cranwell, as the reviewing officer for the graduation parade of No. 91 entry, Air Chief Marshal Arpan Singh, Chief of the Air Staff, Indian Air Force, arrives for the start of the ceremony.

A Singh - As The Reviewing Officer 1967

No. 91 Entry Royal Air Force College

In Autumn 1964 No 91 Entry entered the Royal Air Force College, Cranwell and No 13 Entry entered the Royal Air Force Technical College, Henlow. The engineer cadets joined 91 Entry at Cranwell in January last year when the Technical College merged with the Royal Air Force College.

The Entry comprises 38 Pilots, 7 Navigators, 37 Engineer Officers, 2 Equipment Officers, 2 Secretarial Officers and 1 Royal Air Force Regiment Officer. After leaving Cranwell the Pilots and Navigators will continue with Advanced Training at Royal Air Force Oakington, Royal Air Force Tern Hill, Royal Air Force Valley, and Royal Air Force Stradishall. The Engineer Officers will continue training in the Department of Engineering at Cranwell for a further twenty-three months, before they go to their first stations. The Equipment and Secretarial Officers will also continue training at Cranwell, but only for four months whereupon they will proceed to their first stations to serve as fully qualified specialists in their respective branches. The Royal Air Force Regiment Officer will proceed direct to a Field Squadron.

A Singh - A Cranwellian Returns Again 1989

In April 2002, one of the legends of the Indian Air Force was honoured with the first five star rank of Marshal of the Indian Air Force. No one has deserved the honour more than the famous flyer, Arjan Singh.

When Air Chief Marshal Arjan Singh strode up to the dais to receive the Marshal's baton from the President of India, it was the crowning glory of a brilliant career. From facing the Japanese during World War II, to leading the Indian Air Force during the war of 1965 — Arjan Singh and his men always ruled the skies. Then followed years of distinguished service as a diplomat and L.G. Delhi.
